Spanish Games and Activities

Colors Scavenger Hunt

Have your children go on a scavenger hunt to find items in your house that are the color you say in Spanish. You can use the Spanish Colors Coloring Page as a cue for them. Here's what you could say:

"Go find me something that is...azul."

Do this with all of the Spanish colors.

Bilingual Uno

You can play the card game Uno with your children using some Spanish vocabulary. Here's how:

If you want your children to practice the numeros, tell them to say the number on the Uno card in Spanish every time they play a card. To prevent confusion between the number "uno" and the word "uno" that is said when one card is left in your hand, tell your children to say "número uno" when they are playing the card that has a number one on it.

If you want them to practice colores, have them say the color of the card as they play it.

¡Pesca! - Go Fish!

You can play a bilingual version of "Go Fish" with your children which will help them practice Spanish numbers.

Take a regular deck of cards. Remove the Jacks, Queens, and Kings. The Aces will be 'ones' for this game.

Play the same as you do regular "Go Fish" only substitute the Spanish words for numbers like this: "Do you have a seis?" The person can respond with a "Sí" (see) for yes and hand over the right cards or with a "No. Pesca." (PAY-scah) which means "No. Go fish." To make it more challenging, you can use the Spanish phrase for "Do you have a..." which is "Tienes un..." (TYEN-ayss OON).
